THE MARKET

The Coca-Cola Company is the world's largest beverage company. Along with Coca-Cola®, recognized as the world's most valuable brand, the company markets four of the world's top-five soft-drink brands, including Diet Coke®, Fanta®, and Sprite®, and a wide range of other beverages, including diet and light soft drinks, waters, juices and juice drinks, teas, coffees, and sports drinks. Through the world's largest beverage distribution system, consumers in more than 200 countries enjoy the company's beverages at a rate exceeding 1.3 billion servings each day.

ACHIEVEMENTS

Until the mid-1950s, the contour bottle and bell-shaped fountain glass defined packaging for Coca-Cola. But as people demanded a wider variety of choices, the company responded with innovative packaging, new technology, and new products.

In 1955, king-size and family-size glass bottles were introduced with immediate success, followed by cans in the U.S. market in 1960. The company then marked several firsts in the soft-drink industry: 18-4oz cans and bottles with lift-up crowns in 1964, and a 24-pack "Chatter-Pak" of cans and tin-free steel cans in 1969.

After more than $250,000 in development costs and rigorous testing by NASA, the "Coke Space Can" was accepted for its first mission in outer space in 1985.

By 2000, the company had introduced a new generation to the famous contour bottle — first with the 1993 20-ounce plastic version, and later with the return of the classic embossed glass contour bottle (complete with city and state references on the bottom) in 2000.

In the past decades, The Coca-Cola Company has created new brands to meet the desires of consumers, starting with Fanta in 1960. Sprite was launched in 1961, followed by TAB — the company's first low-calorie drink — in 1963. The debut of Diet Coke in 1982 marked the first extension of the Coca-Cola trademark to another product. And the new products, such as Vanilla Coke continue today, add to the company's portfolio of nearly 400 brands.

For the past 117 years — through its ads that brought the world together, packaging innovations, and the introduction of new products to fit the tastes of consumers wherever they may be, whatever they may be doing — Coca-Cola has become a part of the lives of people around the world.

HISTORY

In 1886, John Pemberton created Coca-Cola in Atlanta, Georgia, and sold it at a local pharmacy. His partner and book-keeper Frank Robinson named the product and drew the famous flowing Coca-Cola script.

Atlanta entrepreneur Asa G. Candler realized the business potential of the drink and acquired complete ownership of the Coca-Cola business for $2,300 in 1891. Within four years, Candler's merchandising flair — including the use of coupons — helped expand consumption of Coca-Cola to every part of the nation.

The 1916 introduction of the patented contour bottle made Coca-Cola instantly recognizable from imitation by taste, sight, and touch. The contour bottle was granted trademark registration in 1977, an honor awarded few other packages.

THE PRODUCT

Coca-Cola. It's a simple idea, really. Drinking a Coke makes people happy. It tastes good. And it's an invitation to live on the positive side of life. That's the message behind "The Coke Side of Life," brand Coca-Cola's overarching marketing platform. It has been created to invite people to create their own positive reality, be spontaneous, listen to their hearts, and live in full color.

Coca-Cola has always been at its best when it reflects the simple, optimistic moments in life. The Coke Side of Life recognizes that the most universal experiences are those where Coca-Cola is refreshingly honest and uplifting.
